

Cluster

SchreibCenter at the Language Resource Center

- Let your ideas flow freely: Begin by writing a word or phrase in the middle of a piece of paper and circle it.
- Write down all your associations without structuring them in any way. Begin next to the center and work your way outwards.
- Circle each idea and connect it to the one before, thus creating an associative chain.
- When you run out of ideas for a particular chain, begin a new one.
- Attention: Do not try to find logic or structure in your ideas; this is something you can do after you have finished your cluster.
